MAN'S KNOWLEDGE OF MAN: "THE MOST NATURAL AND CANNIBALISTIC ENTERPRISE" (VESALE, THE MANUFACTURE OF THE HUMAN BODY, 1543)

- Research training through research backed by laboratories of excellence and part of international debates.
- A demanding training in the humanities combining the history of ideas and analysis of contemporary issues (mutations, the body, global health, politics, ethics and cognition).
- Specialized and multidisciplinary training focused on the acquisition of a methodology in philosophy history, basic cognitive sciences and social anthropology.

Each student can build an original study project (from philosophy agrégation preparation to humanities research including field placements), with personalized follow-up as part of a tutorship provided by teacher-researchers from different disciplines.
